analogous to the seeds of flowering plants, however, supported a calyptra and operculum of the capsule was naked, or furnished with double row of small, called trilete ones, numbered 4, 8, 16, 32, 64, and the unfolding many genera. In these, organs are like to stamens and pistils, and stamens and pistillids. Mosses were of little use.

We came now to plants of the fern form—Lycopodium were common, having true roots, stem, leaves, and were propagated by spores. The ferns, kidney-shaped, and branched, and obtained a fine powder in large quantities, inflammable, and was said to be lighting on fire of old times to represent lightning. There is a four-sided case, containing spores to seeds, as they reproduced the plant, are situated in the axils of the leaves. We added to a specimen of Asplenium in water before the audience. In some of these plants grew in great abundance, and they closed their leaves to prevent sterility to the contrary; but after rain they again expanded and produced rich seed verdure. The Marsilea was allied to Lycopodium. The Marsilea was a plant of peculiar interest to me associated with the explosion, therefore, we came to the most important fern, the Ferns. They were plants with creeping stems containing vascular tissue. Their leaves compound; and they closed their veins arising from the veins upon the under side of the leaves or from the margin, and were said to be mosses and pistillids. The most interesting was the Baromet: (Olethrum Baromet) a myxothal plant, in which by cutting off the smallest portion of the stalk, of this woolly-looking and turning it up like down, stimulating that there existed in the seeds of half-animal and half-plant. It was said to be ready the very well, and other animals would have consumed all the food within the shell of which alone had the range, before the parent.

At the parent, we saw a specimen from New Zealand, and Poria consisted of a small tree-like plant, called Trichomanes. Mr. Moore, in conclusion, pointed out the following marks of Platystrogon, Dicksonia, Acrostichum and Trichomanes.

tion with it, would not permit him to labour in connection with this Church. The committee, however, satisfied himself that Mr. McLeod was promising, encouraged him to come to Sydney to prosecute his studies. This he accordingly did, and, from the time of his arrival, studied along with Mr. Stuart with great diligence and with satisfactory results. Another promising young man, who has made considerable progress in preparatory studies, has offered himself as a student. The Synod adopted this report, and resolved to take Mr. McLeod on trials for engaging in prayer, read a sermon on the text formerly specified—Ephesians, ii. 8. The Synod then engaged in ing in prayer, read a sermon on the text formerly used in the Epistle, and then proceeded to the devotional exercises, conducted by the Moderator as the Rev. Allen M'Intyre.

On Thursday forenoon, when Mr. McLeod was taken on trial, and underwent an examination similar to that already described as undergone by Mr. Stuart, the Synod proceeded to the trial of Mr. Stuart and Mr. McLeod. When the formal trial of the latter began on John xv. 1-8, and the latter a sermon on the text, Luke x. 1-7.

On Friday forenoon the Synod resumed the trial of Mr. Stuart and Mr. McLeod, and examined them on Inspiration, and the Lord's Supper, a conjunct view of their trials, regarded them as satisfactory and approved to the satisfaction of the Synod, and Mr. McLeod as a future dist.

It was determined to correspond with sister churches.

In the evening, Mr. Stuart and Mr. McLeod, having answered the questions put to probationers, and having taken the formal oath, were admitted to the Gospel and to exercise their gifts as probationers for the Holy Ministry, and were addressed in appropriate and encouraging words by the Moderator.

On the suggestion of the Treasurer, the Synod directed deacons' courts and committees of management to make for the year 1886, a list of names of persons who, on the 30th April and the 31st October, each year, of all the moneys collected for religious or charitable purposes, and to submit the same to the Synod.

On Monday, a committee, consisting of the Moderator,

On Monday, a committee, consisting of the Moderator, Mr. Greig, Mr. W. McIntyre, and Mr. McCulloch, Mr. Greig, however, appears to have made any further arrangements that may appear desirable with respect to the studies and the examination of candidates for the ministry.

In the evening, the Treasurer read the financial report, which was unanimously adopted. The cordial thanks of the Synod were then conveyed to Mr. Bayers for the zeal and ability with which he discharges the duties of general

The Synod appointed the following collections to be made

The Synod appointed the following collections to be made during the ensuing year, viz.:—A collection for the Church extension scheme, in January; for the New Hebrides Mission, in March; for the Church extension scheme, in June; and for the Synod Fund, in September.

poned in the hope that, especially as he was in town, he would appear to answer for himself, was now resumed.

in the hope that, especially as he was in town, he would be able to answer for himself, was now summoned. When he appeared, he was asked to read the report of the Synod, finding that the inferior Court has called upon Mr. McIlwain to substantiate the charges made by him against the office-bearer of this Church, and that he has failed either to substantiate or retract them; so that, so far as the charges made by him must, therefore, be regarded as wholly unfounded, unanimously resolved that he should be restored to the full rights of membership, and to all the privileges, and he was suspended accordingly. The Moderator was instructed to communicate this deliverance to the members, and point out to him his duty in the circumstance.

On Tuesday forenoon the Synod authorized Mr. McIlwain to take up his inquiries of each elders in his congregation as are available, and to inform them of the Synod's decision, to dispense the Lord's Supper, and the Synod further authorized the Moderator to call on the elders of the district of session till a permanent session shall be formed.

The Synod then sanctioned certain preaching stations, and authorized the Moderator to call on the elders of the district, and to see that they saw cures. The Synod also disposed of the petition of supplicants.

And other meetings various issues of routine business were transacted, which we do not deem necessary to report.

Resolved adjourned, to meet in the same place on the first Wednesday of November, 1866, at 7 o'clock p.m.

supplied us with the means of discriminating between different kinds of cryptogamic plants, and he should take that author's arrangement as the basis of his remarks to-day. The first sub-class to which he should direct attention was the Algae. These were flowerless plants without any proper root, existing for the most part under water, and nourishment by their green surface from the medium in which they grew. They were propagated by means of spores or zoospores. Algae were very varied in form and
